Your Buddy,

To reflect the school year, to mirror the spirit and tradition of our Shortridge, to remain a permanent reminder of our high school life—these are the purposes and aims of the 1959 Annual. If it is able to show even half the numerous aspects of our life here, then the staff is rewarded for the many hours of hard work and care put into this Annual. May it shine with the spirit and dignified tradition of a great school and merit the honor of representing to one and all, our Shortridge.

STUDENTS' PARTICIPATION

Shortridge is ever conscious of its academic tradition and standing—proud of the achievements of its graduates, their records in higher education and in business and professional life. Primary at Shortridge is learning; but Shortridge also believes that a part of learning is doing. It encourages all types of extracurricular activities that give pupils an opportunity to put to work the things they are learning, the interests they are developing in their classes. Shortridge is, then, not classes alone, but a center of learning activity inside and outside the classroom. This is our Shortridge!

Preparing for the annual Family Frolic means extra work and hours of good times for Shortridge students. The early minutes before class begins afford time for Phyllis Keenan, Marilyn Dajoe, Kirk Sargent, and Larry Wall to work on Frolic decorations.

REPRESENTATIVE of our many school clubs are these presidents. Seated: Babs Berzins, Mary Ann Wright, Pat Fowler, Bob Worth, Judy Melle, Phyllis Keenan, Dianne Easley. Standing: Vic Rosenbaum, Bill Bowe.

High in importance among the activities which make up the learning community that is Shortridge are the extracurricular clubs. It is by participating in them that pupils broaden their interests, learn to share experiences and help others, and develop broadening avocational interests for the future.

Departmental clubs offer pupils an opportunity to get together with others and carry their interests in academic subjects beyond classroom work. Among them we find such organizations as Hi-Pi, Math Club, and Mu Alpha Theta, the three math clubs; Le Cercle Francais, Hebrew, German, Spanish, SPQR, the language clubs; Physical Science Club; and many others.

Service clubs offer an opportunity to learn good citizenship through the practice of community service. Student Board, Girls' League, Key Club, Newcomers, and the Overseas Club are representative organizations in this category.

Hobby clubs give pupils a chance to get together with others with the same avocational interests for discussion, development, and projects. Typical are Chess, Great Books, Footlights, Stamp and Coin, and Fiction.

Then there are the honor clubs for recognition of special achievement: National Honor Society (grades and citations); Lettermen's (athletics); Quill and Scroll (journalism), and National Thespian Society (drama).

The clubs of Shortridge are many and varied—as rich and varied as is the school's broad curriculum. Those we have named are only representative of the large total.

IN SHORTRIDGE-LIFE . . .

Traditionally, Shortridge is interested in music. Our curriculum in the field is of recognized excellence, and the interest finds outlet in many group musical organizations which offer not only regular school credit but also extra-curricular activities. The names of these groups are self-descriptive—

The Marching Band, Orchestral Band, A Cappella Choir, Madrigal Singers, Choral Club, Girls' Concert Choir, Girls' Ensemble, Orchestra.

Through these organizations Shortridge learns and practices music, and our talent has become widely known throughout Indiana.

James Calvert instructs an instrumental music pupil in one of Shortridge's new music rooms, a part of the new fourth floor addition.

Cheerleaders are a vital part of SHS sports life and provide a boost for both players and spectators . . . Dick Ittner and Dick Myers arrange another addition in one of SHS's trophy cases . . . Eager fans enjoy the sun and warm weather at one of the afternoon football games.

Let's go, big team! The chant of the booster section cheers Shortridge teams to victory; be the sport football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, tennis, golf, cross country, or track, SHS athletes have been a factor to reckon with in local and state competition. The boys who wear the block S have earned it with effort and hard work under capable freshman, reserve, and varsity coaches. School spirit, that added extra, has helped our teams win many honors. Athletics at Shortridge is not confined to an inter-school level. Physical education instruction is given to all, and intramural competition is set up in sports from volleyball to bowling, ping-pong to baseball. SHS'ers are trained in the old theory of a strong mind in a strong body.

HARBORS TRADITION . . .

There's a little bit of grease paint in everyone's blood, and Shortridge students have many chances to see and participate in stage productions. This year the seniors presented "Old Doc" for their class play, and it was hailed the semester's hit. Every class took part in the Junior Vaudeville; the five acts chosen for the show presented a spectacle of color, song, and dance for audiences at four performances. The months of preparation were climaxed at the traditional Vaudeville dance when awards were announced. The Thespian troupe and Footlights Club also offer dramatic activity to interested Shortridge students.

Philip Hirsch instructs Kathy Lach on the fine points of makeup as she prepares Terry Thies for his vaudeville appearance.

SHS journalist Eddie Buecher gets an assignment from the board in the Echo office; from his notes, he types copy for the daily publication; the finished product!

The Shortridge Daily Echo, the Annual, the Christmas Echo, the Spring Anthology, WIAN—Shortridge has many voices. We are proud of the high standards of journalism which our school has maintained for so many years. The Echo, with more than 60 years of continuous daily publication, is a school tradition. It serves students, faculty, and parents. The Annual is a senior class project, but it records the year for the whole school. The Christmas Echo and the Spring Anthology give students a chance to see their creative writing in print. WIAN serves the entire community, and also offers a center for those interested in radio work.

AND SENTIMENT . . .

Many adults play an important and essential role in our Shortridge life. The administration is headed by our principal and two vice-principals with the aid of a capable office staff. Teachers are vital to any school, and we are fortunate to have an able and interested faculty who devote their talents, training, and time to helping us with extra activities as well as the regular classroom schedule; SHS'ers can learn in a truly academic atmosphere, knowing extra help always is available. Not to be forgotten are the cafeteria and custodial staffs who aid in keeping Shortridge a finer school.

James Calvert and Joel Hadley, principal, discuss aspects of Shortridge life with Ernesto Culebras, foreign exchange student from Madrid, Spain.

Serving the class of 1959 were the senior officers, Julie Webster, secretary; Timmie Birge, vice-president; Jim Ritchie, treasurer; Diane Grosvenor, Annual editor; and Bill Bowe, president.

Take three years of high school; add an Annual, senior play, turn-about dance, Bluebelle-Uglyman competition, and the Christmas party; spice with many activities, awards and honors; decorate with senior ribbons and class rings; season with college catalogues and entrance tests; blend in class day, commencement, and the grad dance; mix well through the halls of Shortridge and you'll have our senior class. Senior year is the time of fulfillment and leadership, a sense of belonging and specialness, pride, and maybe a little fear at facing what is to come. United as a class for the second year, the seniors enjoyed this last year together, living the times that will become the memories of the class of 1959.

THESE ARE OUR...

ACTIVITIES . . .

SHS students find school and social life often are combined to include a richer scope of activities. Ron Goodnight, Mary Ann Wright, Bob Worth, Babs Berzins, and Dick Ittner make use of those precious minutes before the 8:15 bell.

History Clubbers enjoy the antics at their annual Bridey Murphy "Come as You Were" party.

Barbara Cahn seemed a bit perplexed about whom to vote for at the senior election polls. Mrs. Dorothy Otto, senior class sponsor, was assisted by Betsy Craft and Alice Rawlings on the big day . . . Graduation—"A time for joy, a time for tears, a time we'll remember through the years."

'WORLD-O-RAMA'

Shortridge was taken around the globe for this year's Family Frolic as students, P-TA, and faculty combined to present a "World-O-Rama." Travel posters, exotic costumes, and replicas of many means of transportation helped to carry out the theme. Visitors to the Frolic could try their skills in the Olympic game room, enjoy a Roman dinner or French coffee, buy Japanese flowers, Dutch chocolates, and Mexican trinkets, or visit the Hollywood theatre or the Indian house of mystery. Again this year, the style show and the music department performance of "Brigadoon" were highlights of a night of fun and entertainment for all.

"Brigadoon" lead, Betty Young, is advised by Alice Rawlings as Linda Eckard and cast observe action.

Sophomore Diane Wallick wonders if senior John Hawk, football letterman, will ask her to the Football Dance, an annual affair.

Reigning in the court at the Military Ball were seniors Barbara Keenan, Darlene Lugar, and Julie Webster. Of highest royalty at the ball was Queen Quin Groth, senior.

Betty Young takes the initiative by asking Tom Decker to the annual senior turn-about dance. Looks as if he's accepted!

Anne Temple and Bill Weigel enjoy the sentimentality of their last Shortridge dance—the June grad dance. Bill is a member of Club 30, which sponsors the annual affair.

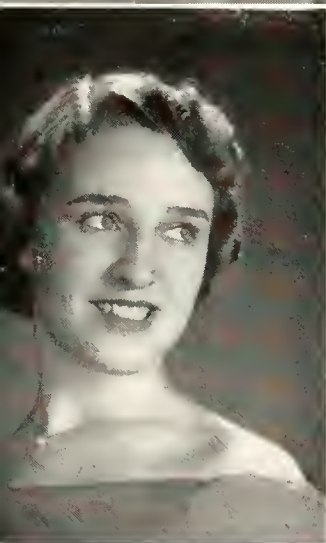

Phil Nicely and Pat Howell discuss plans for the Junior Prom, of which they are chairmen.

In Memoriam . . .

We remember those who helped to make and keep the Shortridge tradition, a tradition which has known teachers who gave of themselves for the good of the school and its students.

A sparkling conversationalist, a stimulating teacher, a gay companion, a good friend—these help to typify Miss Margaret Montgomery. Her friends—and they were many—could testify to her originality, her love for beauty, her interest in anything new, her tact, her wonderful companionship. Truly our lives are brighter for having known her vibrant personality.

All Shortridgers mourn the loss of such a vital, intelligent, versatile, sincere person as was Miss Ruth Lewman. Sympathetic to students with problems, she initiated and sponsored remedies. Alert and interested in many different things, she seemed to have an in-haustable fount of enthusiasm; she inspired through example. We shall miss her.
